“Port Authority Bill Gets Big Boost,” Orlando Sentinel, August 22, 1959.

Transcription:

(This article concerns an Orlando Port Authority Bill established to construct a new airport in the city. At the time the article was written, the bill was a few days out from being voted on. Hull, as the administrative director of the U.S. Navy Underwater Sound Reference Laboratory on Deep Lake, was asked to describe his reasoning for joining a committee headed by an individual that opposed the bill. His response is as follows:)

“...Hull is administrative director of the U.S. Navy Underwater Sound Reference Laboratory on Deep Lake, has been in Orlando four years and he and his wife live at 4807 Big Oaks Lane. An amputee, he has been an unpaid lobbyist in Congress for disabled veterans.

Langford is with the Martin Co. and he and his wife live at 1345 Spring Dr.

Hull said last night there are “several more” in the Citizens’ Committee for Good Govt, “some of whom don’t want to be identified because of their positions.”

He said the group originally was made up of friends and neighbors, most of whom attend the same church, and was formed about three weeks ago “because we felt we were not getting enough information on major issues and candidates for office.”

“We decided we wanted to organize in order to inform ourselves and in turn their voters to take a stand on major issues. As it so happens, the first thing that came along was the port authority bill.”

“We had three attorneys go over it and their findings were reported to us and we decided to go over it and to take a stand.”

“Understand, we are not taking a stand for or against the airport, just the port authority bill,” Hull said...”

(The rest of the article consists of additional comments from the committee and discussion on the feasibility of the airport’s construction.)
